MY VEILED CLIENT.

HOW I ESCAPED COMPLICITY IN AN AUDACIOUS IMPOSTURE.

At the time of the incident I am about to relate, I was a young solicitor, with no very considerable practice, and therefore not always so discreet as I might have been had I been able to pick and chose my clients. My business hours were ostensibly from ten to five but the fact of my house adjoining the office made me subservient to the wishes of the public beyond the time stated on the brass plate at my office door. In fact, it was generally after business hours that my most profitable clients came; and though I say I refused many a time the agency of some shady business, still I must confess with regret that once or twice I found myself unwittingly involved in transactions which I would have much rather left alone. One of these I have occasion to remember too well, and I can never think of it but I thank Providence for saving me from becoming an accomplice unwittingly in a most audacious piece of imposture.

I was interrupted one night at tea by the servant entering and saying that a lady wished to see me. Hastily finishing the meal, I hurried into my business room. As I entered and bowed, a lady rose, made a slight courtesy and remained standing. I begged her to be seated, and asked of what service I could be to her. It was a little time before she answered, and then it was in a nervous, frightened way, glancing round the room as if she were afraid somebody else was present. I saw that, although she was dressed in good style, she had not the air of a lady, but, as she wore a thick veil, I could not distinguish her features, though I made out a gray hair here and there.

"I suppose I had better explain who I am and what I want," she began. "I am a Miss Howard, of Graham square, and I want you to make out my will."

I started involuntarily, for this elderly person, though I had never seen her before, had been the subject of many a surmise and many a gossip with the neighbors. She was reported to be very wealthy; but had apparently abandoned the world, for, during the last five years she had shut herself up in her house, seeing no one but her servants. My curiosity was therefore piqued at the idea of making out this old eccentric's will. Taking up a pen, I asked her to give me the particulars of how she wished the property disposed of.

"That is very simple," she said. "I wish my whole property to go to Mr. David Simpson, of Stafford street here. I have never been married; and I want the will framed so as to cut off any heir who might claim relationship to me. I also wish you to act as my executor in seeing my will carried into effect."

I made a note of the instructions, and asked when it would be convenient for her call and sign the deed.

"If you could have it written out by to-morrow night, I could call then and sign it. I would like if you could arrange to have a doctor present to be a witness to my signing—a young doctor, if possible."

"Certainly, madam. To-morrow night at this time will suit, and I will arrange about a doctor being present. —Is there anything else you wish mentioned in the will?"

"No; nothing," she said, rising. "But be sure you make it so as to cut off all relations."

I assured her everything would be as she desired; and after assisting her into the cab which was waiting, noticing the while that she had a slight limp in her walk, I retired to my study to frame the will in accordance with her instructions. Next night, punctual to a minute, she called: and as I had a doctor present, the ceremony of signing was soon over, the doctor signing as a witness along with my clerk, and appending a certificate of sanity, as desired by my client; and the deed was consigned to my safe.

The affair had almost completely passed from my mind, when I was startled one morning by receiving a note from Mr. Simpson, the legatee in the will, informing me that Miss Howard was dead. I immediately proceeded to the house, performed the usual duties devolving upon a solicitor in such circumstances, and made what arrangements were neccessary. After the funeral I had a meeting with Mr. Simpson, and explained to him the position of affairs—that he was sole legatee, and that I was executor. He seemed to take the matter very coolly, I thought, but was anxious that everything should be realized as soon as possible. Our interview was very short; and I came away with a strong feeling of dislike for the man, who, I found, had acted as a sort of factor for the deceased lady.

Acting within the duties of executorship, and also with a desire to find out if possible the relations the old lady had been so anxious to cut off, I inserted a notice of her death in most of the leading newspapers in the kingdom. This had the desired effect; for in the course of a few days I was waited upon by a young gentleman, Edward Howard, who informed me he was a nephew of the late Miss Howard, and had called upon me, having got my name and address from the office of one of the newspapers to which I had sent the advertisement. During my interview with Mr. Howard, I was much impressed with his bearing, on my telling him the position of affairs, as he was much more concerned at his aunt's death than at the purpose of her will. He told me that five years ago he had married against his aunt's wishes; she had refused to recognize his wife; and though he had written her several letters, he had never heard from her in reply. He thanked me for my information, and said he would likely see me again, as he was coming into town to a situation he had just been offered.

Some weeks after this, as I was returning home in the evening from a consultation, my attention was arrested by the figure of a woman in front of me. She was hurrying along as if trying to escape observation; but there was something in her style and the limp which she had that struck me as familiar, though I could not remember where I had seen her. Just as she was passing a lighted part of the street, she happened to look around, and the face I saw at once explained to me the familiarity of her figure—both face and figure being an exact counterpart of my late client's Miss Howard! Somehow or other, a suspicion flashed across my mind; my instinct told me something was wrong, and I determined to follow her and see where she went to. Pushing my hat well over my brow and pulling the collar of my coat well up, I followed through two or three streets, and was almost at her heels when she suddenly turned into a public-house, when, so close had I followed her, I heard the attendant say, in answer to an inquiry by her: "Number thirteen, ma'am;" and I saw her disappear into the back premises. I immediately followed, heard the door of number thirteen shut, and glancing at the numbers, quietly opened number twelve, and after giving an order for some slight refreshment to the attendant who had followed me, I took a look around the room.

I found it was divided from the next one only by a wooden partition, which did not reach the ceiling, and that, by remaining perfectly quiet, I could hear that a whispered conversation was being carried on in the next room. The entrance of the attendant with my order disturbed my investigation; but on his departure, and regardless of the old saying that listeners seldom hear anything to their own advantage, I did my best to make out the conversation. I distinguished the voices to be those of two men and one woman. The latter I at once recognized, or at least my imagination led me to believe it to be the voice of the person who had called on me a year ago to make her will. The voice of one of the men was strange to me; but after the discovery I had already made, I was not greatly astonished at recognizing the voice of the other man to be that of Simpson, the legatee in the will. The whole thing flashed upon me at once, and I saw I had been made the innocent machinery for carrying through a clever and daring piece of imposture. I, however, listened attentively to the conversation, in order to fathom the whole affair.

The first sentence I made out came from the stranger: "I told you young Sinclair was the very man to do the work for you. These young lawyers never ask any questions as long as they get the business."

"Well, well," said Simpson, "that is all right now. But the present question is, what is to be done in the way of hurrying him up with the realization of the estate without exciting suspicion? The sooner we all get away from this the better. I am glad that young fellow Howard didn't ask any questions. But one thing's certain, we must get the old woman away from this immediately or she's sure to get recognized. She's been keeping pretty close lately, but I dare say she's getting tired of it. Aren't you, old lady?"

"Indeed," was the reply, "I would be glad to get away from this place to-morrow, if I could. I'm sure I only wish you could have been content with half of the estate with Mr. Edward, instead of burning the will, when you found it was to be divided between you and him, and getting me to do what I did. I'm sure it's a wonder my misstress doesn't rise from her grave to denounce us all."

"Keep that can't for another occasion, old woman; it's no use getting religious now. But I'll tell you what—I've got an idea."

Here the conversation got so low that I could not catch more than an occasional word, and what that idea was I never found out, as he never got the chance to try it on me, for I had heard enough to know that next door to me were three of the most daring conspirators I had ever come across, who had duped me, and made me, though unwittingly, the chief actor in the conspiracy. My first idea was to lock the door of the room they were in and go for help; but as that was likely to cause a disturbance, I determined to slip out and trust to being back in time for their arrest. As luck would have it, nearly the first man I met outside was a detective, whom I had known very well in connection with some criminal trials in which I had been engaged. A few words explained my purpose; and signaling to the nearest policeman he placed him at the door of the shop and both of us walked in. He nodded familiarly to the bar-tender and, leaning over the counter, whispered in his ear. The shopman started and gave vent to a long, low whistle.

"You'll do it as quietly as you can, for the credit of the house," said he.

"Of course," said the detective. "Show us in."

In another minuute we were inside the room, with our backs to the door, the detective dangling a pair of steel bracelets and nodding smilingly round the room. The woman fainted. We had no difficulty in securing the men; and in half an hour we had them safely housed in jail.

Before their trial came on, we had worked out the whole story. The woman who had called on me and signed the will was Mrs. Simpson, Miss Howard's housekeeper, the mother of Simpson in whose favor the will was made; and the other man was a lawyer's clerk who had suggested to them the feasibility of such a scheme. The fact of Miss Howard's self-confinement and my own imprudence had nearly made the plot a success, but for my accidental recognition of the house-keeper. Each of the prisoners offered to turn Queen's evidence; but, as we had no difficulty in proving the case, this was refused, and they were sentenced to various periods of penal servitude. I had then the pleasure of handing over the estate to the rightful heir, young Edward Howard, who, notwithstanding that I had nearly been the means of depriving him of his inheritance, made me his agent.

The estate turned out to be much larger than I had at first thought, as I succeeded in proving that a large number of investments in Simpson's name really belonged to Miss Howard, and the management of so large a property fairly put me on my feet as regards business. I have had many good clients since then, but I have often thought that my Veiled Client was my best one, as she was the means of giving me my first lesson in prudence, and my first start in life.

What the Newspaper Does.

Rev. John Rhey Thompson, of New York, says: The crowning marvel of our modern civilization is the printing press. It is impossible to overestimate its vast power. It propagates and defuses information. It gives wings to knowledge, so that on a breath of morning it flies everywhere to bless and elevate. I stand in growing wonder in the presence of the printing press. It lays its hands upon the telegraph and speedily gathers news from all parts of the world, and acute editors and ubiquitous reporters and rapid compositors and flying steam presses commit to paper a faithful photograph of what is going on in the world. And yonder stands the iron horse, with breath of flame and ribs of steel, ready to go to remote portions of the country, dropping packages of the daily papers on the way. Yes, it is a mighty engine for good and a mighty engine, too, for evil. Like all the blessings of this trial life of ours, it is not an unmixed blessing.

Remarkable Presence of Mind.

On a first night at the Theatre Francais, Regnier, the comedian, now deceased, displayed remarkable presence of mind. He was alone on the stage, and was supposed to be expecting a friend. 'He comes!' exclaimed Regnier, looking off on the left. 'Joy! I have been awaiting him so impatiently.' At this cue his friend entered—on the right. Some one had blundered—but who? There was no time for hesitation, and the veteran player's ready wit came to his aid. 'Sly dog!' he said, jocosely, to the newly arrived: 'you thought to take me by surprise, but I saw you in the looking-glass yonder.' This brought down the house, though the audience had been on the point of hissing the very palpable blunder.

Where Money Reigns Supreme.

In New York, and, I suppose in all large cities, but there especially, money has been made by the fortune. They have hundreds of millionaires, and thousands upon thousands of very rich men. Speculative opportunities afforded by unscrupulous men who to-day live upon their ill-gotten gains. We are on the ragged edge of speculation. Speculation has put into the pockets of rascals millions, and has taken from the pockets of the greedy millions. A new set have come to the front socially and financially. They are vulgar, common, rude, offensive. They boast of their wealth; they flaunt in the eyes of the public their new purchase; they give balls and entertainments to which gentlemen with whom they are unacquainted are invited. They send lists of guests to the newspapers; they furnish, in addition to this, discriptions of elegant toilets worn by the ladies at these entertainments, they inform society reporters of all the details of expenditure; they tell how much they spend for flowers, what the cost of the dinner or supper is to be. They parade before the reporters their gold and silver service, and are particular that they get its cost correctly. They appear upon the streets in the morning with diamonds in their ears, with costly ornaments upon their necks, and inexpensive bracelets upon their arms, if they be women; with diamond collar-buttons and diamond sets, and heavy gold chains and solitaire diamond rings upon their fingers, if they are men. They are loud in tone, flashy in dress and boorish in manner. All this, vulgar and low-bred as it is, is not bad; it is simply disagreeable, and, doubtless, as time rolls on, social friction will smooth away the roughness, and when the fourth generation appears—by which time, however, the money will doubtless be spent—manhood and womanhood will have their turn. The foregoing refers to the home life of these creatures. In their public and in their amusement taste I find the beacons and the suggestions to which I earlier referred.

Corners His Pa.

About a month since the wife of the editor of the Magazine of Humor and mother of the inquisitive young gentleman aforesaid, had a queer attack of a complaint that is becoming chronic in our family, which left her with another daughter, and affected the editor in precisely the same way, and when their youthful knowledge glutton came home from school he was considerably surprised.

'Where did you get it?' he inquired.

'The doctor brought it to us,' the editor incautiously replied.

'In his pocket?'

'Yes,' the editor assented.

'In his vest pocket?' asked the boy.

'Yes.'

'Wrapped up in a piece of paper?'

'Yes.'

'With its name printed on it?'

'Yes.'

'What is its name?'

'Why—son, it is—that is, we have not named it yet,' the editor inconsistently exclaimed, in the dire moment of his surprise.

'Where do the doctors get the babies for people?'

'Oh, they find them!'

'Who looses them, pa?'

'Oh, God let's them drop down from heaven and the doctors pick them up.'

'It's awful high up to heaven, ain't it, pa?'

'Thousands of miles.'

'And if anybody would fall down from there, it would kill him, wouldn't it?'

'I should think it would, my son.'

'Then why don't it kill the babies?'

'Why, because—oh blank it!'

'Do they fall in a blanket, pa?'

'Yes, that's what keeps them from being killed.'

'Who hold's the blanket?'

'Why, the people close by see a baby falling when it is away up, and they run out and hold the blanket.'

'And catch it?'

'Yes.'

'And find it?'

'Certainly.'

'Then how does the doctor find it if the people that held the blanket found it.'

'Oh, you bother me.'

'Pa, do all liars go to hell?'

'Of course they do.'

'Where is hell, Pa?'

'Why down under the earth.'

'Pa, how are you going to get down there and when will you start?'

What Astonished Lamar.

From the New York Times.

An earnest Republican, who since campaign times has learned to respect the intelligence as well as the integrity of President Cleveland, tells a good story that comes direct from Secretary Lamar. It relates to the first business meeting of the Cleveland Cabinet and shows how the President, in a quiet, unostentatious way, opened the eyes of the Mississippi statesmen. Except Manning, there wasn't a member of the Cabinet, who did not manifest some curiosity as to the way in which President Cleveland would conduct his executive household. They found him neither officious nor talkative and though he produced upon every one of them a most favorable impression, when the meeting broke up they didn't know him much better than they did before the meeting began. The Oklahoma boomers were cutting a wide swath in the country just then and the Okalhoma boomer was very generously discussed at that Cabinet meeting, it being resolved that the Secretaries of the Interior and War should draw up a proclamation in accordance with certain views upon which the President with the Cabinet had agreed. Secretary Endicott quickly suggested that Secretary Lamar should put the proclamation in shape and then they would go over it and elaborate it together. 'It is a pretty stiff task, but I'll try it,' said Mr. Lamar, with a smile that was not hilarious. That night, somewhere about 11 or 12 o'clock, Mr. Endicott's dreams at the Arlington were disturbed by a knocking which threatened wholly to tear down his bedroom door. In stalked the tall Secretary of the Interior. He had brought over a draught of that proclamation. Mr. Endicott read it. Mr. Endicott was pleased and he said so. It was very good, very good indeed, he said. It couldn't be improved upon. Mr. Lamar had struck just the right key. Mr. Endicott had not a single suggestion to offer. He felt pretty sure, he said, that it would meet the President's approval just as it stood.

'Yes, I guess you're right; I guess it will meet the President's approval just as it stands,' said Mr. Lamar. 'Let me tell you a thing or two. I worked over this thing for hours. I hunted up President Arthur's proclamation against the boomers and tried to build one up of my own with it for a model, but I did not make much headway. Then I started out on my own account and struggled over a lot of blank paper. It was not a very satisfactory showing that's a fact, but I strayed over to the White House with it, had a talk with the President, read him the document and asked him if he had any suggestions to make. I said to him frankly: 'Mr. President, it doesn't suit me.' He looked over my draft and then he said to me in a quiet way: 'Suppose you let me try my hand at it, Mr. Secretary.' He took up his pen and he wrote. He didn't stop, he didn't hesitate; ideas seemed crowding one right on top of another. When he was done he read it to me. That is all—what you've read and approved. Let me tell you, Mr. Secretary, President Cleveland is a business man; he knows what he means and he means what he says. He is simply a revelation to me.'

A Singular Race.

In Sumatra there is a very singular race, called the Kubus, who are too shy to mix with the other races of the island, and dwell in the recesses of the forests. They are looked on as inferiors by the Malays, and thought to be little better than beasts. Such is their shyness that they will never willingly face a stranger. Their trade with the Malayans is consequently carried on in a strange manner. The trader announces his arrival by beating a gong, and then retires from the place of rendezvous. The Kubus approach, put their forest treasures on the ground, beat a gong, and retreat. The trader returns and lays his commodities down in quantities sufficient, as he thinks, for the purchase of the goods on sale. Then he retires, and the Kubus reappear and consider the bargain. And so, after more withdrawals and approaches and gong-beatings, the respective parties come to an understanding, and carry off independent their bargains. The Kubus in their wild state do not bury their dead. They live on snakes, grubs, fruits, and the flesh of any deer or pigs they can slay. They are skillful spearmen, and throw stones with marvelous accurracy. They know of no state after death. In some physical respects they assimilate closely to the anthropoid apes.

HOLD ALL WHEAT.

Commissioner Colman's Advice to Farmers.

This Year's Crop Below the Average —Amount of Injured Grain— The Illinois Yield.

Agricultural Commissioner Coleman thinks farmers had better hold on to their grain. In a bulletin issued from his bureau the following advice is given: 'This year is peculiar in having an unprecedented supply of old wheat in the hands of traders; the effect is naturally an unexampled effort of holders to advance prices. Now, it is not the province of an official statistical service either to advance or depress prices, but to tell the truth. This department is expected to look to the interest of farmers, but experience has shown that their interest is not advanced by underestimating the crop. The growers are at the wrong end to profit by misrepresentation. Distance, heavy transportation and many occasions of delay are circumstances against them; the telegraph, organization and capital favor the buyer. It is repeatedly proven that misrepresentation of crop production insures only to the advantage of the speculater or wealthy purchaser. Honesty, then, is the best policy for farmers in crop reporting. With immense stocks in commercial hands, high prices will benefit mainly the traders now; in two or three months with stocks exhausted and a new crop ready for delivery, the buyer will magnify European supplies, exaggerate the outcome of the American product and offer low prices.

A PERTINENT SUGGESTION.

"Here a suggestion is pertinent. The wheat harvest of the world in 1885 will not be an average. Hence prices will eventually advance. But it should be remembered that it requires a full year to move the wheat crop of the world. Heavy harvests following deficiency do not depress prices materially for many months after garnering. The culmination of the effect is often in the following year. So the large production of last year now fills the granaries of Europe and America and prices are low in the face of the current crop failures. No great advance will occur till the excess of stocks shall be consumed.

"Let the farmer, therefore, who is not pressed for money, deliver slowly until commercial stocks are depleted, watch the markets, and if he can hold till late in the autumn or winter, he may profit by the scarcity. But he must not assume the existence of the scarcity which is prophesied by the bulls of the present hour and hold for extraordinary prices, refusing reasonable advances, or his ultimate loss of price, interest and ratage may prove a sorer calamity than the early autumn sales: This is a true word for the ear of the wise farmer."

Dropping Unhurt 3,000 Feet.

In September, 1857, upward of 15,000 people were at Lemon Hill and along the banks of the Schuylkill to see M. Godard go up in a balloon along with his brother and drop the latter out from among the clouds in a parachute. It is said that the feat had never been attempted before in the history of ballooning; it was a startling novelty, and the people crowded to see it. When the balloon sailed gracefully upward outside of the enclosure M. Godard and two friends were in the basket, while below it M. E. Godard, his brother, was seated upon a small bar of wood attached to the parachute. It looked like an immense umbrella. The balloon went over the Schuylkill in a southwesternly direction, and after it had reached an altitude of about 6,000 feet began to slowly descend. Then the parachute began to expand. When within about 3,000 feet of the earth the cord was cut and the parachute rapidly descended, with Godard hanging on to the bar. The balloon shot upward again. The descent of the parachute was keenly watched by thousands of spectators, and many expected to see the daring man dashed to the earth in the twinkling of an eye. It was observed however, that as the parachute neared the earth the descent was slow and easy. At last the man and his big umbrella faded out of sight over the hills, and we learned next morning that he came down all right on his feet, like a cat, about half a mile west of the old Bell tavern, on the Darby road.—*Phila. Democratic State Convention.

The Pennsylvania Democratic State Convention will assemble in the Opera House, in the City of Harrisburg, on Wednesday, August 26th, at 10 a.m., to nominate a candidate for State Treasurer, and to transact such other business as it may determine.

Under the rules of the party the representation in the State Convention consists of Representative Delegates, one for each 1,000 Democratic votes cast for the nominee for Governor at the last Gubernatorial election [1882] or for a fraction of 1,000 such votes amounting to 500 or more in the respective Representative Districts, provided that each Representative District shall have at least one delegate. The representation for the coming Convention is the same as it was in 1883 and 1884. Copies of the rules or of the apportionment of delegates will be furnished on application to the undersigned.

Orders for the purchase of Railroad Tickets at reduced rates, good from August 24th to 29th, over the P. & R. R. R., P. R. R., P. & E., and N. N. C. R. R., to Harrisburg and return, will be sent to Delegates and others "entitled to be in regular attendance" at the Convention, upon application to the undersigned after August 5.

Delegates to the Convention, alternates or substitutes, County Chairmen and members of the State Committee, are requested to forward the names and post-office address of delegates at once.

W. U. HENSEL,
Chairman Dem. State Com., Lancaster, Pa.
J. B. LICHTY, Secretary.

JAMES J. BARCLAY, the oldest member of the Philadelphia Bar, and a soldier of the war of 1812, died at his residence in Philadelphia, on Sunday morning, in the 91st year of his age.

THE Democratic convention of Union county nominated the following ticket on Monday last: Associate Judge—Cyrus A. Eaton; Sheriff—Geo. E. Long; District Attorney—W. R. Follmer; Jury Commissioner—Wm. E. Smith.

A MYSTERIOUS explosion occurred on the Delaware on Monday morning, which blew the steamboat Felton up and injured sixteen persons. The loss on the vessel is estimated at $1500. An investigation established the fact that the explosion was caused by dynamite.

THE Democratic State Committee of New York on Tuesday night decided to hold the Democratic State Convention in Saratoga on Thursday, September 24. John O'Brien was chosen Chairman in place of Daniel Manning, who resigned, for the balance of the term. Charles A. Gronnis was made Secretary.

THE voters of this Commonwealth will have to decide by ballot at the next fall election whether or not the amendment to the constitution, providing that a county must have no less than 60,000 population, in order to become a seperate judicial district, shall be a law. At present only 40,000 are required to make a county such a district. The secretary of state has issued his notice referring to this matter several weeks ago.

THE following statement appearing in the Harrisburg Patriot of yesterday would indicate that business confidence is being restored again and that prospects for better times are brightening: "Eller & Lessig in Pottstown have notified the heater helpers, rollers, and those working about the rolls, that their wages will be increased, the increase in some cases reaching 20 per cent., with prospects of the mill going on double time and plenty of work."

ACCORDING to the reports of the larger daily papers in the country, an impression seems to prevail that a great improvement in the business and financial condition of the country is close at hand. By all means let it come—the poor man is looking forward to the happy change with longing eyes. One good consequence of the general depression is that most people learnt to prize the cent, while the cheapness of the necessities of life greatly helped to prevent dire need and starvation.

JOHN KELLY is no longer the sachem of the mighty Tammany organization in New York. A large majority of the Tammanites, in consequence of the peculiar position which their old chief took in the late presidential election, demanded his resignation and succeeded in the election of a new leader, a Mr. Loew. The movement deserves the praise of every true democrat, because under Kelly's selfish leadership it became very doubtful sometimes on which side of the political fence Tammany is going to land. It is to be hoped that under the new man, the organization will become a more reliable and solid Democratic body, than it has been under boss Kelly.

Will Ask for an Extra Session.

Consideration of Measures for the Relief of the Industrial Classes Asked.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 14.—Trades organizations throughout the United States will issue a petition to-morrow requesting President Cleveland to call an extra session of Congress to be devoted exclusively to the consideration of measures for the relief of the industrial classes of the country and the revival of business. The petition after calling the attention of the President to the general stagnation of business says: "The consequences of this depression are especially severe upon the laboring people, small manufacturers and farmers who are without any reserve means upon which to live, or to pay their debts and save their homes and small properties from forced sales. Employers and employed are involved in a common disaster and believe that it is in the power of Congress and the Executive to greatly relieve this depression by wise legislation." It asks that the extra session be convened on or before the last Monday in September, 1885.

Miscellaneous News.

A Ship-Load of Silver Dollars.

The vaults of the mint and Sub-Treasury at New Orleans being overloaded with silver dollars, about five million are to be brought to Washington and placed in the great Treasury vault, where there is more room. The naval vessel Swatara, now in port in New York will convey this immense pile of silver.

Louis Henke, first-baseman of the Atlanta (Ga.) baseball team died on Saturday afternoon from the injuries received during a game of baseball between the Atlanta and Nashville clubs. Henke was running to first base on a hit to third base. The ball was thrown to Marr, Nashville's first baseman, who muffed it. On leaning forward to get the ball in time to put out the runner his head struck Henks in the side and ruptured his liver. Slow hemmorrhage set in, which continued until his death.

Buy Your Coal Now.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—It is believed to-day that the anthracite coal companies have about consummated plans for the restriction of the output of the mines to the extent of 600,000 tons during the month of September. This restriction, it is stated, will weed out the surplus stocks and put the trade in excellent condition for the fall. It is understood that it is the intention of the companies to advance rates on the 1st of October, believing that the market will then be in such a condition that they can be maintained.

An Important Decision.

Conviction of Murder in the Second Degree Bars Trial for the Higher Crime.

MONTROSE, Pa., Aug. 16.—A decision of importance to lawyers throughout this State was rendered here in the case of the Commonwealth vs. P. Winters. Pat Winters was tried and convicted of murder in the second degree at April sessions last. A new trial was granted and the question arose whether, after a prisoner, charged with homicide, has been tried and convicted of murder in the second degree, he can, upon a new trial afterwards, be convicted of the higher offense.

It was agreed by all that this point had never been decided by the Supreme Court of this State and probably never will be until some judge holds that the defendant can be convicted of the higher offense, and a jury renders a verdict in the first degree. Judge J. B. McCollum decided that a trial and conviction of murder in the second degree was as fully an acquittal of murder in the first degree as if it was expressed in the words of the verdict, and a complete bar to a conviction of the higher crime, Judge Grier dissented.

Paralyzed While Bathing.

WILMINGTON, Aug. 13. — Elwood Smith, aged 20 years, died at Newark, Del., yesterday under peculiar circumstances. On Sunday, July 26, with a party of friends, he went to the creek above Newark for a swim. Smith dived at once into the water after undressing. He did not reappear for some time, and then one of his friends jumped into the creek and found his motionless body floating under water. He was taken to the house of his grandfather, Jacob Casho, where he remained in a comatose state until he died. He never rallied after the first shock, and the doctors have been puzzled to find a cause, as he was very strong and healthy. He was a native of the State, but came latterly from Camden, N. J., where his funeral will take place.

—THE Liver is the largest gland in the human organism and stands guard, as it were, at the portals of health. Properly performing its functions it eliminates all impurities and disease germs from the blood; failing in this misery and disease follows. An occasional dose of McDonald's Improved Liver Pills will insure regular, healthy and vigorous action of this great gland, and save doctors' bills and days of misery. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

PETERSON'S MAGAZINE for September opens with a very beautiful steel-engraving, from a picture in the last Paris salon, 'The Drink At The Spring,' but contains, in addition, a mammoth colored fashion-plate, besides some fifty other illustrations, chiefly for the fashions, the work-table, etc., etc. The stories are remarkably good, even for 'Peterson.' Notably among them are: 'Thimble,' 'A Long Half-Hour,' 'The Passaway of Peril,' and a powerfully interesting novelet by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, the sequel to 'The Motherless Girl.' That inimitable writer, the author of 'Josiah Allen's Wife,' also contributes the first part of a sketch, 'How The World Was Buraed Up,' the conclusion of which is to appear in the next number, and which will be anxiously awaited. We cannot recommend this magazine too highly. It seems, to us, to fulfill all the requirements of a lady's book, and at a price that places it within the reach of all—viz: two dollars a year for a single copy, with great reductions to clubs; it is, by all odds, the cheapest and best. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for, to those really wishing to subscribe. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, Pa.

—NO ONE, better than the mothers, knows the amount of persuasion, threatenings and force required to induce the children to take, when necessary, a dose of the nauseating, sickening worm syrups; and no one more highly appreciates the virtues of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. So pleasant and easy to take, so effective as a worm destroyer, the dose so small that the children never know they are taking a medicine. There is nothing in the shape of a vermifuge that can compare with them. Don't be deceived. Take no other. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

Bound to the Rails.

A Railroad Man's Awful Position—Supposed to be the Work of Tramps.

LEWISTOWN, Pa. Aug. 16.—One of the most fiendish crimes that ever had its inception in the soul of human beings and carried into execution, was perpetrated upon Mr. Thomas Crepps, a division boss on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Mr. Crepps was walking on the railroad track making his way home, about 9 o'clock on Friday night, and when near Anderson Station, a few miles above this place, he was attacked by three unknown men. The assailants knocked Crepps down, and robbed him of his silver watch and a month's salary that he had just received. After the robbery the fiends gagged and bound him hand and foot, and then tied him firmly across the track, and hurried away.

Crepps knew that a freight train was due in a few minutes, and began a struggle to which the desperation of an imminent death lent super-human strength. He wrenched his feet from his boots and succeeded in extricating his right hand when the expected freight train came in sight. One minute more and the thongs would have been severed. The struggling man rolled off the track and the iron horse came rolling on, crushing the fingers of his left hand. After the train had passed Crepps was found by a track-walker, and the gag removed. Crepps was carried to his home at Granville, and his condition is critical.

Yesterday and to-day all the tramps that passed up and down the road were arrested and searched, but no evidence of the robbery in the shape of the missing property could be found.

Corrected.

Miss Anna Johnson, of 24 Front street, Columbus, Ohio, says: "I suffered from an aggravated form of constipation and indigestion for several months. My family physician tried all kinds of medicines and pills, but to no effect. I began to think my case was a hopeless one. A friend of mine (Mrs. Elvira Redmond, of East Long street, this city), called, and seeing the condition I was in, recommended me to try your MANALIN. I must say I had but little faith in the medicine, but after I had taken a few doses I was convinced that MANALIN was the medicine for me. After I had taken one bottle I was entirely well of my complaint. I consider it one of the best remedies for constipation I have ever used. I have several friends who are using it. They think it an excellent remedy. I recommend it to all who are afflicted with constipation or indigestion. Any one doubting this statement is invited to call on me at 24 Front street."

Mr. Milton Knotts, Urbana, O., writes: "Last November one year ago I was taken sick, and called in our family physician. He examined me and said I had symptoms of typhoid fever. He gave me medicine for two weeks or more without any relief. I began to think that my days on earth were fast closing in. I saw at once that his medicine would not reach my disease. Just as I was about to conclude that I would have to die, my daughter brought me one of your pamphlets. I noticed a case whose symptoms were like mine, and PERUNA and MANALIN had cured him. I concluded at once to try it. I procured one bottle of PERUNA and one of MANALIN, and took them as directed, and before I had used the two bottles I began to receive strength and gain in flesh. I finished the rest of the two bottles and continued its use until the third bottle was used. When they were used I could eat anything I wanted to and go about my work. I consider that if it hadn't been for your PERUNA I would have been in my grave. Parties wishing information can write me at the above place. I recommend your medicine wherever I go."

Mr. John R. Davis, Moundsville, W. Va., writes: "I have been handling your PERUNA ever since its introduction. All who have used it speak highly of its curative properties. I consider it a reliable remedy."

Mr. George Fisher, Portsmouth, O., writes: "I am handling your PERUNA, and having a good trade on it. It gives splendid satisfaction."

Hay Fever Cured by Cream Balm.

I HAVE BEEN a periodical sufferer from Hay Fever since the summer of 1879, and, until I used Ely's Cream Balm, I was never able to find any relief. I can say that Cream Balm cured me.—L. M. Georgia, Binghamton, N. Y. 32-4t —H. H. Trumpfheller, of New Columbia, and the senior partner of the firm of Trumpfheller & Vonada, at Coburn, was one of the speakers at Children's meeting on Sunday afternoon at camp. He made some forcible remarks on the financial part of religion and handled the subject without gloves.

—The motto of the proprietors of Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters is, "the greatest good to the greatest number," and so sell a large bottle of a valuable remedy for the small price of 25 cents, and warrant every bottle to give satisfaction or money refunded. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—As a little ten-month old child of Kate Mingle, of Aaronsburg, ran out of the tent at campmeeting last Sunday afternoon it almost got under a passing wagon when somebody took a hold of its arm and jerked it away. The violent pull caused a badly sprained shoulder. A physician who happened to be near attended to its injuries.

—The Quarterly Meeting of the Pennsvalley Circuit of the M. E. church will take place at Millheim next Saturday and Sunday. Services will be held in the Methodist church as follows: Preaching on Saturday evening, Communion services on Sunday forenoon at 10 o'clock; Children's meeting at half-past 2 o'clock, and preaching in the evening.

—If you delight in going to picnics do not miss the one to be held at Madisonburg on the 5th of next month. From what we hear it promises to be a real big affair and the different features of the programme as announced on the bills will be gone through without fail. Our good little band will be there and entertain the attendants with their best music.

—Zeigler's new bakeoven was finished last week and gives entire satisfaction. It is indeed a very handy and spacious structure, having a capacity for baking 60 loaves of bread at a time. Mrs. Zeigler gave it its first trial the other day, when she baked 42 good-sized loves of the best bread. Men are now at work digging the cellar for the front part of the new house.

—James T. H. Fausst advertises his property in George's Valley, about two miles southwest of Spring Mills, for sale. See bills.

—E. H. Long, who is prostrated for over a week by sickness, we are glad to learn is at this writing resting easy and on a fair way to recovery.

—Samuel Weiser, Sr., of Main street, who has been confined to the house by sickness the greater part of this summer, is able to be about again.

—About 1000 excursionists were conveyed in twelve coaches from Mifflinburg to Centre Hall, where they picnicked and returned in the evening at 6 o'clock.

—M. L. Blair, Alderman 5th Ward, Scranton, Pa., stated Nov. 9, '83: He had used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil for sprains, burns, cuts, bruises and rheumatism. Cured every time.

—BAD DRAINAGE causes much sickness. Bad blood and improper action of the liver and kidneys is bad drainage to the human system, which Burdock Blood Bitters will remedy.

—Campmeeting was very largely attended on Tuesday on account of the presence of Bishop Dubbs on the grounds. The prominent divine delivered some excellent discourses on that day.

—Jacob Wolf and Thomas Frank of this place are both seriously ill most of their time, being almost continuously under medical treatment. We should be very glad to report their ultimate recovery.

—Abs. Musser and wife, of Aaronsburg, are about to start on an extensive Western trip. They intend to spend several months in traveling over the Far West. We wish them a safe and pleasant journey.

—The Bellefonte Daily News and Republican will both be enlarged and printed on the new Campbell Cylinder press which has lately been placed in that office, and which is pronounced a model piece of machinery.

SLEEPLESS.—Remove the cause by regulating the bowels, by establishing good digestion and by quieting the nerves with Simmons Liver Regulator. Try it, and you will soon know the blessing of good health and sound sleep.

—Mr. Samuel J. Weiser, of Mifflinburg, is spending several days in town this week, with a threefold purpose—to visit his convalescent father, to attend the funeral of his sisters' (Mrs. Henry Brown) child, and to take in the campmeeting.

—Young, old, and middle aged, all experience the wonderful beneficial effects of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young children suffering from sore eyes, sore ears, scald-dead or with any scrofulous or syphilitic taint, may be made healthy and strong by its use.

—During last Thursday's thunder storm lightning struck into a tree on the Clintondale campground. It also entered a tent and demolished the stove and cooking utensils. A lady being near at the time was badly frightened, but received no injuries.

—Don't fill the system with quinine in the effort to prevent or cure Fever and Ague. Ayer's Ague Cure is a far more potent preventive and remedy, with the advantage of leaving in the body no poisons to produce dizziness, deafness, headache, and other disorders. The proprietors warrant it.

—Daniel Hoy, the proprietor of the Main street meat market bought 17 head of cattle last week. It keeps John Miller, his butcher, busy to supply the large custom of the market. Last week he slaughtered 5 beefs, every pound of which was sold by Saturday evening and many customers had to be sent away empty-handed.

—A lot of so-called gypsies canvassed the town the other day with brushes, which they attempted to sell and failing in that, they turned to impudent begging. Our people should in no wise encourage these tramps, because they will become perfect plagues. If you grant them a finger they grab for the whole hand.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—We noticed yesterday morning that John Kerstetter, Jr., has began operations on his premises on Penn street. He is moving his present dwelling back and will build a new house in front of it. John intends making a neat and comfortable home for himself and at the same time add another fine building to the nice row of properties on Penn streets.

—The following item from the Christian Advocate will be read with interest by the many friends of C. C. Zeigler, formerly of Rebersburg:

UPPER IOWA UNIVERSITY.—The 28th year of the Upper Iowa University will begin September 8. The faculty has been recently strengthened by the election of C. C. Zeigler, a graduate of the State University of Iowa, '73, and of Harvard College (magna cum laude), '84, to the chair of Natural Science. Mr. Zeigler will begin his work at the opening of the fall term.

—Our schoolboard has taken a decided step forward by purchasing good furniture for all the school houses in the borough, and the children will surely thank the board for this improvement. Now to make the outfit complete and reap the thanks of all right-thinking parents, they should place the other and most useful pieces of furniture into the school rooms, namely good, reliable teachers with well-furnished heads.

AARONSBURG'S DEATH RECORD.—The third time within the last three weeks the merciless reaper of death cut into the ranks of Aaronsburg's citizens, on last Sunday morning. When the sad and unexpected intelligence of the death of Mr. Wm. Harter of that place spread throughout the valley, a thrill of surprise and sorrow shot through the hearts of his many relatives and personal friends, seriously reminding them of the grave words, "In the midst of life we are in death." Mr. Harter was well known and esteemed and his sudden departure is grievous news to all. It is the first experience of the kind in the family, the aged couple having enjoyed perfect health ever since their marriage 55 years ago, with their twelve children all living and well. The remarkable fact is that Mr. Harter never was necessitated to use medicine or call medical aid. On the morning of his death he arose seemingly in good health and kindled fire in the stove preparatory for breakfast. When his wife came down he was sitting on a chair, applying some liniment to his arms and neck, saying that those parts pained him some. She left the room for a short time to attend to some work about the barn, and on her return found her husband still in the chair, in a reclining position and apparently asleep. She tried to awaken him, when she discovered that life was extinct. We are justified in saying that the grief of the widow for the death of her husband under the surrounding circumstances is intense, and the writer, along with the community, tenders his sincere sympathy to the bereaved survivors. Deceased had reached the age of 73 years, and was a life-long member of the Lutheran church, of which he also was a faithful and honored pillar. He was always known as a kind husband and father, a good neighbor and an industrious and worthy citizen, devoting most of his life to agricultural pursuits. His funeral will take place this (Thursday) forenoon, when the remains will be interred in the Lutheran cemetery at Aaronsburg, Rev. M. L. Dietzler conducting the services.

—The council of the Lutheran church of this place publish the rules for the new cemetery, which they propose to style "Fairview Cemetery," in this week's paper. The gentlemen of that body, authorized by their congregation, sometime ago purchased a tract of land, containing eight acres, situate on the southern side of the turnpike about ¼ mile west of Millheim, from Mr. Charles Frankenberger, for that purpose. They expect to lay out for the present about two acres into cemetery lots, with spacious roads intervening, the prices of the lots ranging from $7 to $15. The location of the cemetery is one of the finest in the vicinity, the ground being elevated with a gentle upward slope to the south. The two acres to be used are the northwest corner, the front of which will be adorned with a tasty and substantial iron fence and an arched gateway. A careful perusal of the rules will convince our readers of the systematic and orderly manner in which the enterprise is to be conducted.

SMITH TOWN.

The roasting ear season is here and all seem to enjoy it.

Mr. George Stover, from near Woodward, sojourned among us this week.

Some fellows are after the squirrels already. Boys, better wait a few weeks yet. You might be caught and would have to pay dearly for the sport.

Henry Keen bought another fine horse. He now has his stable full of the best horses to be found in the county.

Mrs. R. A. Bumiller was the guest of Mrs. H. E. Duck on Sunday.

The oats is nearly all away, and the farmers are busy getting ready for seeding.

The heavy rains of last week washed out deep ditches in some fields, damaging the same to some extent.

William Huey, of Brush Valley, made his stay in our little village several days.

Mr. Barber, the popular cow drover of Mifflinburg, was in this neck o' woods buying up cows. He shipped a car load on Tuesday morning.

Last Thursday, Oscar Duck moved his thresher, which had been standing here for three weeks, to Brushvalley.

JUMBO.

—TESTIMONIALS many times are cut from the whole cloth, and for every one voluntarily given in praise of a meritorious article an unscrupulous and dishonest manufacturer can write up a dozen for his worthless products; but the following card from the traveller of Sower, Potts & Co., a publishing house known in almost every state in the Union, is so emphatic and to the point that we cannot refrain from giving it in evidence:

'Georgetown, Pa.

J. A. McDonald, Dear Sir:—Please forward by express at once one bottle Curtis' Carmelite Cordial to C. F. Camp, Esq., Stroudsburg, Monroe Co., Pa. It cured me so quickly and completely last summer that I recommend it highly to all my friends.'

A Four-Legged Fire-Extinguisher

A well-dressed man entered the smoking car on an Illinois Central suburban train with a handsome bull terror at his heels. Neither man nor dog attracted attention, and the man took a seat, the dog crouched at his feet. A passenger at the other end of the car drew a cigar from his pocket, put it in his mouth, lit a match and held it carelessly in his hand waiting for it to burn into a bright blaze. Just as the man was raising it to his cigar the dog saw the match, ran like a streak down the car, sprang at the match, and catching it in his mouth extinguished it in an instant. The dog contentedly trotted back to his master's feet and sat down as though he had done a very meritorious act. Then the passengers began experimenting. Some one lit a parlor match and threw it into the air; the dog sprang into the air and caught it before it fell. Matches lighted and thrown upon the floor were extinguished in an instant by the dog with his mouth and fore paws. Then somebody, whose instincts were a little brutal, threw a cigar stub with a brilliant coal of fire on the floor. The dog sprang on it and, although finding it a tougher job than a match, worried it with mouth and paws till it was extinguished.

'Light a piece of paper and see what he does?' remarked the dog's owner, getting a secure grip on the animal's collar. A man took a piece of paper, crumpled it into a ball and lit it. When it was ablaze he threw it on the floor of the car. The dog had been restrained with difficulty during the operation, and, being released, made a spring and came down on the paper with all four paws and nose in a bunch, extinguishing it instantly.

'What kind of a dog have you?' asked a reporter of the owner.

'Why, he's a bull terror, about two years old. I think all bull terrors have a natural antipathy to fire and will try to put it out. I use this dog as a watch-dog and have not trained him at all beyond encouraging his natural instincts. It struck me that the trait was a good one; so I patted him on the head. He beats the patent fire extinguishers all hollow.'—Chicago Tribune.

An Anecdote of Bragg.

This story is told by Gen. Grant in his forthcoming book: "I have heard a story in the old army very characteristic of Bragg. On one occasion, when stationed at a post of several companies commanded by a field officer, he was himself commanding one of the companies and at the same time acting post quartermaster and commissary. He was a first lieutenant at the time, but his captain was detached to other duty. As commander of the company, he made a requisition upon the quartermaster—himself—for something he wanted. As quartermaster, he declined to fill the requisition, and endorsed on the back of it his reasons for so doing. As company commander he responded to this, urging that his requisition called for nothing but what he was entitled to, and that it was the duty of the quartermaster to fill it. The quartermaster still persisted that he was right. In this condition of affairs Bragg referred the whole matter to the commanding officer. The latter, when he saw the nature of the matter referred, exclaimed: 'My God, Mr. Bragg! you have quarelled with every officer in the army, and now you are quarreling with yourself!'"

From Pole to Pole

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has demonstrated its power of cure for all diseases of the blood.

The Harpooner's Story.

New Bedford, June 1, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & CO.—Twenty years ago I was a harpooner in the North Pacific, when five others of the crew and myself were laid up with scurvy. Our bodies were bloated, gums swollen and bleeding, teeth loose, purple blotches all over us, and our breath seemed rotten. Take it by and large we were pretty badly off. All our lime-juice was accidentally destroyed, but the captain had a couple dozen bottles of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA and gave us that. We recovered on it quicker than I have ever seen men brought about by any other treatment for Scurvy, and I've seen a good deal of it. Seeing no mention in your Almanac of your Sarsaparilla being good for scurvy, I thought you ought to know of this, and so send you the facts.

Respectfully yours, RALPH Y. WINGATE.

The Trooper's Experience.

Masven, Basutoland (S. Africa,) March 7, 1883.

DR. J. C. AYER & Co.—Gentlemen: I have much pleasure to testify to the great value of your Sarsaparilla. We have been stationed here for over two years, during which time we had to live in tents. Being under canvas for such a time brought on what is called in this country "veldt-sores." I had those sores for some time. I was advised to take your Sarsaparilla, two bottles of which made my sores disappear rapidly, and I am now quite well.

Yours truly, T. K. BODEN,
Trooper, Cape Mounted Riflemen.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.

N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic

ELIXIR

For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that

CONSUMPTION

Is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.

It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the cause, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

QUAKER

Is the Best

TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
